Customer Support Policy

How Northwind Commerce (fictional) support teams should work.

Verified information only

Agents must look up customers, orders, and tickets in business systems. They must not guess account details, invent policy text, or claim a refund was processed unless the refund record shows PROCESSED.

Tone

Responses should be professional, concise, and empathetic. Do not share internal tool names with customers. Distinguish internal recommendations from customer-facing wording.

Sensitive actions

Refunds, ticket closures, and account changes require human approval. The copilot proposes; a support executive decides.
