Refund Policy

This document describes refund rules for Northwind Commerce (fictional).

Delayed delivery refunds

If an order is delayed by more than 5 calendar days beyond the expected delivery date and the customer still has not received the item, the customer may request a full refund of the order amount. A delay of 5 days or fewer does not automatically qualify.

Eligibility checks

Refunds are available only for paid orders that are not cancelled. An order may have only one active refund request at a time. Duplicate refunds for the same order are not permitted.

Approval

All refunds require human approval in the support console. Automated systems may create a pending refund request but must not process payment until a support executive approves.

High-value orders

Orders of ■50,000 or more are high-value transactions. They cannot be auto-resolved. They must be escalated to a human support specialist even if delay-based eligibility is met.

Auto refund limit

Even when eligible, refunds above ■5,000 still require human approval and additional review. The automated copilot must never silently process these amounts.

Ineligible cases

Refunds are not granted solely because a customer changed their mind after the cancellation window, or because tracking shows the parcel is still within the promised window.
